DISCUSSION: The employment-based immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a software development and consulting company. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a Senior Systems Analyst pursuant to section 203(b)(2) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(2). As required by statute, a labor certification accompanied the petition. The director determined that the beneficiary did not possess the required education for the offered position as set forth in the labor certification. The director denied the petition accordingly.

In a request for evidence (RFE) dated August 31, 2011, the AAO requested evidence to establish that the beneficiary possessed the required education for the offered position as set forth in the labor certification.¹ This office also requested additional information to establish that the petitioner has the ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage beginning on the priority date of the visa petition and continuing up to the present. Specifically, the petitioner was instructed to submit Forms W-2 or 1099 (if any) for the beneficiary for 2007, 2008, 2009, and 2010, and tax returns or audited financial statements for the petitioner for 2007, 2008, 2009, and 2010.

This office allowed the petitioner 45 days in which to respond to the RFE. In the RFE, the AAO specifically alerted the petitioner that failure to respond to the RFE would result in dismissal since the AAO could not substantively adjudicate the appeal without the information requested. The failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14). More than 45 days have passed and the petitioner has failed to respond with proof that the beneficiary possessed the required education for the offered position and that it has the ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage and. Thus, the appeal will be dismissed as abandoned.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.

¹ The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. The AAO's de novo authority is well recognized by the federal courts. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004).
